The Gulenist terrorist movement and its bases in South Africa.
Don't be left in the dark!

Warning to the SA Muslim concerning The Gulen movement. (Also known as Hizmet and Feto)

FETO or HIZMET is run by a man named Fethullah Gulen, a Turkish 'cleric' who is in exile in the US. Despite many extradition requests from the Turkish government, the US have refused to hand him over for trial and prosecution in Turkey.

This organisation was behind the failed coup in Turkey to overthrow the elected government run by president Erdoğan. There was also an assassination attempt on the life of Erdoğan.

Read the details on the failed coup here:

http://www.dailysabahcentre.com/publication/evidence-of-gulens-involvement-in-july-15-coup-attempt-16/

This terrorist organisation recruits it's members and followers under the guise of 'religious and educational institutions' and indoctrinates the minds of people thereby. View attached infographics for a detailed overview.

The Gülen movement is deemed a designated terrorist group by the following countries and international organizations:

- Turkey, since May 2016
- Gulf Cooperation Council, since October 2016
- Organization of Islamic Cooperation, since October 2016
- Pakistan, since December 2018
- Northern Cyprus, recognised only by Turkey and considered by the international community to be part of the Republic of Cyprus, also designated the Gülen movement as a terrorist organization in July 2016.

Note the number of Schools linked to Hizmet in South Africa:

http://gulenschoolsworldwide.blogspot.com/2015/01/gulen-schools-worldwide-list.html?m=1

Strangely enough, they also have a system of 'Imamiyyah', and claim that Rasulullah صلى الله عليه وسلم is present at their sporting events and directly commands them. Naoodhubillah!

Unfortunately, South Africa has become one of the main bases for this terrorist organisation outside of Turkey and the US. The Nizamiye complex in Midrand is the biggest of them.

How the Gulenists set up camp in SA:

Please stay clear of this organisation and it's institutes, they will indoctrinate our minds and our children's minds too!

They have strange beliefs that are alien to Islam and are suspiciously cosy with the enemies of Islam!

THE KUFR BELIEFS OF FETHULLAH GULEN.

The beliefs of Fathullah Gulen - Is he a Muslim & can we go to his Masjid?

QUESTION

Assalamu alaykum wa Rahmatullah wa Barakatuhu

I hope that Mufti Saheb is keeping well Insha Allah

Attached is a book published by the Ministry of Religious Affairs of Turkey. It details the beliefs of Fathullah Gulen. Fathullah Gulen has been involved in great controversy and has a base in SA, in Midrand.

Can Mufti Saheb kindly study this work and provide the following responses:

1. What is the status of a person who has the beliefs stated in the book?

2. What is the status of performing Salaah behind a person who has these beliefs?

3. Is it permitted to attend Salaah at a Masjid built and run by a person or persons with such beliefs?

4. Is it permitted to host major programmes at a Masjid built and run by a person who has such beliefs?

Jazakallah u Khayran

ANSWER

In the Name of Allah, the Most Gracious, the Most Merciful.

As-salāmu ‘alaykum wa-rahmatullāhi wa-barakātuh.

Muhtaram Mufti Abdullah Moola,

Re:Fathullah Gulen

We have studied the book on Fathullah Gulen. We have observed that he has many corrupt views. It is possible that some of his corrupt views could be interpreted in different ways. The following three views seem to be explicit about his corrupt views which are recorded in FETO, a compilation of Fathullah Gulen’s speeches.

Justification of Trinity;[1]
Encouraging Christians to stay upon Christianity;[2]
Legitimising soothsaying and mediumship.[3]

If a person holds the above-mentioned beliefs, he is not a Muslim. It is not permissible to perform Salah behind such a person. When it is known that the founder of the Masjid holds such corrupt beliefs, it is probable that the appointed Imam’s too will have the same or similar beliefs. We ought to exercise extreme precaution in safeguarding our Iman and ensure our Salah is valid. We therefore advise the public against performing Salah in any of the Fathullah Gulen affiliated Masaajid.

And Allah Ta’āla Knows Best

[1] “… Now, within such an observation, if they call this “trinity”, it is fair to tell them “لقد كفر الذين قالوا إن الله ثالث ثلاثة” Allah is the third of the three. It is correct to say, ‘he is the third of the trinity’… God becomes one of these three, he becomes the third.”

[2] · "… If a person gets up, comes and says, I've dropped, there's nothing in this Christianity… I would tell him, hey until now you were a Christian, and what bad did you see? …"

[3] "…Here I confess without hesitation as one of the witnesses of the subject matter that what a medium says is definitely present there at the time of soothsaying. This is not about informing about the ghaib, but rather an observation of a clear thing…

We shouldn't be fooled by any outward display of huge 'Islamic architecture' or 'Muslim schools'. We should be wise enough to see through the smokescreens of Baatil.

STRUCTURE OF THE IMAM SYSTEM

IMAM SYSTEM

The system, which is hierarchically similar to a pyramid system and is the chain of command, is the main structure of FETO.

ABİ/ABLA (BROTHER / SISTER)

Gülenists are in a hierarchic manner appointed as responsible for specific locations from schools to regions. Abi's are responsible for men while abla's are responsible for women. They conduct their organizational works in their locations in an hierarchical order.

Each imam is an abi, but not every abi can be an imam.

GÜLEN'S USE OF SUPERSTITIONS CRITICIZED

The FETO's promotion of superstitions, sorcery and dream interpretation has been particularly criticized, as many critiques claim the movement is withdrawing from reality to avoid facing the fact that its strength is decreasing as it is economically, socially and psychologically shrinking.
Last year saw leaked recordings of Gülen's phone conversation with an official from the pro-Gülenist Turkish Confederation of Businessmen and Industrialists (TUSKON). In the phone conversation, the official tells Gülen that Prophet Muhammad told him to double the amount of tweets, and Gülen responded: "Do whatever he tells you to do."
His followers also claimed that the prophet was present at the Turkish Olympics organized by the Gülen Movement. This claim was published in an online article, which says that Gülen received many letters about the prophet attending the Turkish Olympics. "Believe me, our beloved prophet has honored our organization," Gülen was quoted as saying.

> A video of Fethullah Gülen released in 1999 shows him calling on his followers to "move within the arteries of the system, without anyone noticing your existence, until you reach all the power centers... You must wait until you seize the entire state power."

FETO DICTIONARY

FETHULLAH GÜLEN

The self-exiled, former imam, and author who leads the Gülen Movement, which Ankara declared to be a Terrorist Group. He and his followers call him the "imam of the universe." He claims to speak with god and the prophet to convince his followers that he is the Mahdi, the Islamic version of a messiah.

FETO

The abbreviation for the Gülenist Terror Group.

HİZMET (SERVICE)

Service in Turkish. It is the word Gülenists use for the Gülen Movement.

HİMMET

The word for 'donation' in Turkish is used by FETO. It is the money the organization gets from its members to contribute to the organization in the name of God. Himmet makes up 20 percent of the organization's income.

MÜTEVELLİ

Mütevellis are the high-ranking people who financially fund the FETO.

PENNSYLVANIA

Fethullah Gülen, the leader of the FETO, left Turkey in 1999 to seek medical treatment in the U.S.. Since then, he has been living in a complex located in Saylorsburg, in rural Pennsylvania, where he uses as a base to operate the FETO and where his followers visit him regularly.

TEDBİR/TAKİYYE

Being precautious is common even for junior followers like house imams, students and house abis and ablas of the Gülen Movement. Followers familiarize certain precautions such as never keeping their cellphones with them at their consultation meetings, disposing notes right after and using keywords in their phone calls. In the system an abi or abla can only meet a higher ranking follower after getting a reference. Training for undercover work starts at an early and impressionable age. Followers who have high positions in the state or military hide their connection with the Gülen Movement as well. Gülen has given fatwas to his followers to do anything to hide their involvement with the FETO. One fatwa says his Muslim followers drink alcohol, not pray and not wear headscarves.

TURKISH CULTURE CENTERS (TCC)

One of the branches of the FETO in the United States that pretends to spread Turkish culture to the world.

RUMI FORUM

The Rumi Forum for Interfaith Dialogue and Intercultural Understanding is a U.S.-based, Gülenist forum that aims to advertise the Gülenist Movement in the U.S. The Rumi Forum's website says its honorary president is Fethullah Gülen. The website has separate chapters to introduce Gülen, the movement, and Gülen schools in the U.S., including the testimonials of politicians, jurists, and academics on the movement.

DIALOGUE

Uses dialogue as a mean to cover its irregular activities and convince those countries to tolerate their presence.

TUSKON

The abbreviation of The Turkish Confederation of Businessmen and Industrialists that is connected to the FETO. It controls businesses and organization around the world.

ALTIN NESİL (THE GOLDEN GENERATION)

According to the Gülen Movement, it is the ideal generation, who are educated in Hizmet's houses, dormitories and schools.

PIRLANTA (DIAMOND)

The name of the Gülen's series of books, which is ordered by imams to be read by followers on a regular basis.

DECODING THE GÜLENIST TERROR GROUP (FETO)

SCHOOLS: MAIN SOURCE OF RECRUITS

There are more than 2,000 charter schools linked to the Gülen Movement in 160 countries, some of which have been shut down. Some of the charter schools in the U.S. are under several FBI probes in four states. The FBI does not comment on ongoing investigations. Charter schools linked to the Gülen Movement in the U.S. are facing several probes by the FBI in four states, although the FBI does not comment on ongoing probes. They reportedly concern improper business practices by the charter school chains, the largest of their kind in the country. Several schools affiliated with the movement have already closed. Since the coup attempt, the Turkish state has closed down hundreds of Gülen schools and dozens of Gülen Movement-affiliated universities. Almost all of these institutions were already under investigation, but the strong presence of Gülenist infiltrators in the judiciary and other parts of the state apparatus assured the investigations continue slowly.
When asking a random person in a Turkish village if they know a member of the Gülenist Terror Group (FETO), they would probably point to a member of their family or other relative and explain how that person joined the organization. The majority of recruits start when Anatolian families are deceived by members of the organization who promise to raise their children according to the morals of their faith to be useful citizens of the country.

MEDIA EMPIRE A PROPAGANDA TOOL

During the years Gülenists infiltrated the state, they used Gülenist media outlets to justify their state of mind and to manipulate the people's perception. Promoting itself as the newspaper with the widest circulation for years, the Zaman newspaper was little more than a mouthpiece of a secret group of Gülenist conspirators led by Gülen that sold a few copies to the public and created a phantom readership through manipulation and coercion. It was not only Zaman, it had dozens of dailies, magazines and TV and radio stations to use for its manipulation operations. The media exposed Gülenists' false claims of having the best-selling newspaper and videos showed that Gülenist executives were recycling most of the print copies even before newspapers reached readers. They forced many people having sympathy for the movement to subscribe their newspaper, and they gave the newspaper for free to increase daily circulation.
However, although the numbers were false, the organization was able to open doors for itself in Turkey and abroad by saying that it had the country's best-selling newspaper.
Anyone in Turkey has the right to defend their stance with their media, but creating news articles to be used against their opponents in criminal investigations, targeting all those who stood in its way and silencing critical people. The then editor-in-chief of Zaman, Ekrem Dumanlı, in a televised interview in September 2015, said that either Erdoğan would leave by his own free will or he would be pushed to leave the post.

COMPULSORY DONATIONS, EXPLOITING FUNDRAISING TO FINANCE ORGANIZATION

It is compulsory for the members of the organization to pay 20 percent of their income to those in charge in the hierarchy or directly to one of their fundraising organizations, such as the charity foundation Kimse Yok Mu. The FETO has dozens of charity organizations and investigations revealed that these did not register charity donations in its bank account and took donations abroad without the knowledge of related government institutions. FETO used charity money taken from its members for the organization's secret agenda.

SECRET AGENDAS OF GÜLEN'S INTERFAITH ACTIVITIES

In the name of advocating peace, Gülen and his followers run numerous interfaith dialogue societies, such as the U.S.-based Rumi Forum and the Dialogue Society branches across the Europe. The organization – which is not welcomed by the majority of Muslim societies – uses the interfaith dialogue as a tool in the Western world, to push those countries tolerating their activities.

BUREAUCRACY: NO NEED FOR POLITICAL PARTY TO FIDDLE

Looking at all the developments since the 1970s, including the coups in 1980 and 1997, which Gülen supported, Gülen did not establish a political party, but rather lent support to those who were in power. However, his stance of siding with the ruling party ended when he thought he had become powerful enough due to having agents in all segments of the state to topple the government in 2013. When considering ousting the leader of the main opposition party through a sex tape scandal, wiretapping thousands of people, including top government and military officials, and infiltrators in all political parties, Gülen apparently thought it was time to have complete power over politics and the bureaucracy.
He then started looking for new allies, from ultra-nationalist figures to leftists and pro-Kurdish politicians. Although his followers in the judiciary sent thousands of Kurds to prison in the famed Kurdish Communities Union (KCK) case in 2011 and 2012, Gülen and his media extended support to a political party representing these people in the latest elections. The sole aim was to curb support for the ruling Justice and Development Party (AK Party) that fights to cleanse the Gülenist "virus" from the country.
